

Conversion Pre-Approval Requirements for Level III Technician Candidates

The Conversion program is intended to allow rope access technicians who have obtained rope access skills and experience on an industrial two-rope system, outside the SPRAT certification system, to be evaluated for SPRAT certification at a level commensurate with their skill and experience. The Conversion program is only available to individuals who have not previously held any SPRAT certification.

Conversion candidates should submit the appropriate documentation to the Evaluations Committee for review and approval no less than five weeks in advance of the scheduled evaluation date. Applications may be submitted by the individual, the Evaluation Session Host, or training provider.

In addition to the required documentation, a $350 application fee will be assessed to all Conversion candidates at the time of application submission. This fee does not cover candidate fees associated with an evaluation session.

Conversion Level III

- Rope access technicians who hold an active Level III certification in a recognized rope access association may apply to be evaluated for SPRAT certification as a Level III Technician.
- Conversion applicants shall provide documentation of work experience.
 - The provided documentation of work experience shall be in accordance with Safe Practices for Rope Access Work.
 - A sample log for how hours may be submitted is presented in the last page of this file.
- Applicants shall provide a work at height resume that includes 2 professional references, employers, pertinent experience, position(s), responsibilities and previous training.
- Applicant shall provide a letter of recommendation from a Rope Access Program Administrator, Rope Access Supervisor, or client.

As stated in Section 6.3 of the Evaluation Guidelines:

- The Evaluations Committee considers the following organizations to have commensurate Level III certifications:
 - Australian Rope Access Association (ARAA)
 - German Association for Rope Access (FISAT)
 - Industrial Rope Access Trade Association (IRATA)
 - Norwegian Association for Rope Access (SOFT)
 - Singapore Rope Access Association (SRAA)
- The Evaluations Committee will consider other rope access certifications if the certification criteria are provided with the Conversion application.
